

TRANSFER MANUAL - CUSTOMER support THE TRANSFER MANUAL. 1.0 GENERAL CERTIFICATIONS 3.2. AIM. The aim of this manual is to fully describe all the dimensions and technical details on the manuals for the CAMERON® CASTER® ROLL® and TIMPAIR® PLASTIFRAME® machines required for the . Automatic transfer machine made in 1996 by Galileo and similar to the CORITEC machine. . manuals. Download. Transfer manual. It's estimated that transfer machines are used to produce around 30% of the world's dental prostheses. OPENING OF THE MAKING OF, TRANSFER, COMPACTION, FABRICATION AND PODS MANUALS WITH 1.0 GENERAL. 1.1. PURPOSE AND SCOPE OF THE MANUAL. This manual provides the complete instructions for transferring a model from one material to another. . This manual is divided into four parts: . 1. CORITEC 450i. 1.1. General description. 1. Transfer machines are used in the dental industry to produce porcelain-fused-to-metal. 1.2.1.1. Structure. A transfer machine consists of a . 1.3.1.2. Technical characteristics. . 1.3.2.3. Precision. The transfer process can be considered as an additive. 1.4.1.4. Assembling. . 1.4.1.5. Conclusion. For the details on the assembling of the machine please refer to PART 4 of the manual. . 2. CASTING OF A MODEL. 2.2.1.1. Materials to be used. 2.2.1.2. Specification of the parts to be made. . 2.2.1.3. Achieving the most common outline and cross section contours on the model. 2.3.2.1.1. How to prepare the model. 2.3.2.1.2. How to prepare the master model. 2.3.2.1.3. How to prepare the model. 2.3.2.2. The characteristics of the part's

1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to an auxiliary illumination apparatus adapted for use in a projector.
2. Description of Related Art As a technique of developing a two-dimensional image, which has previously been projected on a screen using a reflection type liquid-crystal display, with a three-dimensional image through a combination of the two-dimensional image and the three-dimensional image, there is conventionally known a technique of synthesizing the two-dimensional image and the three-dimensional image using a projector. By way of example, in Japanese Laid-Open Publication No. HEI 11-212815, there is disclosed a technique of adjusting a projection angle of a three-dimensional image based on an angle of incidence of the two-dimensional image. In the technique, the projection angle is manually changed, and the angle of incidence is changed in conformity with the change. The change of the projection angle of the three-dimensional image results in a change in an angle of reflection of the two-dimensional image. Also, in Japanese Laid-Open Publication No. 2000-135050, there is disclosed a technique of changing a focal distance of a projector based on an angle of incidence of a two-dimensional image. In the technique, the focal distance of the projector is manually changed, and the angle of incidence of the two-dimensional image is changed in conformity with the change. However, with the technique disclosed in the former publication, the projection angle of the three-dimensional image cannot be changed in response to the change of the angle of incidence of the two-dimensional image. Furthermore, in the technique disclosed in the latter publication, a complicated control
