CLIPTRAY is a handy utility that creates and manages a history file for the files added to the clipboard. The application installs easily and it is intuitive enough for less experienced users to be able to use it with no trouble whatsoever.

Immediately after the installation procedure the application is active and available in the system tray area. The tool is not restricted to saving snippets of text for longer periods of time as it can also hold entire files. Monitoring of the clipboard can be interrupted at any time by the user and there is support for plain text, RTF, HTML, images and folders. Moreover, its list of features includes image capturing capabilities, that can be triggered for the current window or for the entire screen straight from the tray icon. By simply clicking on the tray icon the utility shows the history of the clipboard items and allows retrieving them with very little effort. The configuration panel of the application includes the possibility to define the maximum size of the clipboard history and to prevent the copying of the same item twice. For a quick view of the entire clipboard history users can set a shortcut key. Once the elements are displayed the user can select any of them to replace the current data in the clipboard. CLIPTRAY Features: • Multi window support • Image capturing support • Full clipboard history • Support for plain text, RTF, HTML, images and folders • Configuration panel with possibility to define the maximum size of the clipboard history and to prevent the copying of the same item twice • Support for double-click, drag & drop & right-click • Configurable short-cut keys *****

In the hours after his inauguration, President-elect Donald Trump issued an executive order that would remove all of the restrictions of his predecessor Barack Obama on certain national monuments. These decisions are highly controversial, especially when the president-elect is intent on removing protections from historic public lands, and when those lands include areas that are privately owned by Americans. But in Utah, where most of America's public land lies, the stakes are even higher. Two weeks ago, former Republican Gov. Jon Huntsman Jr., who has become the highest-ranking Republican in the statehouse, vetoed a bill that would have prevented the Trump administration from moving forward with the president-elect's plan to open the 2,000-square-mile Bears Ears National Monument. Huntsman, who said he was "extremely concerned about the precedent" the move would set, had signed onto a letter in June by nine Utah congressional representatives that asked Interior
